

Adam Hanna

The guitar-based Adam Hanna Band provides a mix of modern pop and classic rock. They typically perform with four pieces, but they can offer the flexibility of reducing to a trio or adding up to two additional players.

Adam Hanna is a singer-songwriter and guitarist based out of Boston. His major influences are Bruce Springsteen, Ed Sheeran and John Mayer. Since graduating from Providence College, Adam now gigs on a full-time basis at weddings, parties, clubs, and bars both as a solo artist and with his quartet performing at high-profile events such as the New England Patriots Superbowl Ring ceremony, the House of Blues Boston as well as a sold-out Dunkin Donuts Center to sing the National Anthem. Adam has released five original songs and is currently working on his next three singles.
