

Houston Bernard

Born in Oklahoma, Houston Bernard is a direct descendant of famous gunfighter, George “Bittercreek” Newcomb, a member of the infamous ‘Wild Bunch’ a most wanted man in the 1890’s. Houston’s father and uncle played in country bands backing up stars like Tanya Tucker, Sleepy LaBeef and were a staple in the Oklahoma and Nashville scenes known as the Rebel Brothers. Houston draws his musical inspiration from his family’s country and rockabilly roots. He brings upbeat, relatable music with his powerhouse vocals and a touch of country twang that transcends age, and resonates with a large audience. Houston has shared bills with country superstars like Luke Bryan, Old Dominion, Granger Smith, Montgomery Gentry, Marshall Tucker Band, and Clint Black. His music has been featured on Country Rebel, CMT, The Heartland, and The Country Network.
