

Lydia Harrell

Lydia “The Lovely Singer” Harrell’s soulful voice and evocative songwriting have garnered her the attention and respect of the nation’s finest musicians and venues. Whether performing with the Boston Pops, singing the National Anthem at an NBA game, or lending her vocal talents to chart-topping deep house singles for British record label: Reel People Music, Lydia’s dedication to extracting the pure essence of song goes virtually unmatched.

In addition to her accomplishments as a musical artist, Lydia is a film/TV, voiceover and theatre actress. She has appeared in many commercials, films and theatre productions and is currently slated to play the role of Billie Holiday in the New Repertory Theatre production’s of “Lady Day at Emerson’s Bar and Grill.” Lydia is also on faculty as a Voice Instructor at the internationally renown, Berklee College of Music.

